PROOFS

The most exciting event organized by the Commerce Association of Sri Venkateswara College at Consortium 2021, the Battle of the Bidders was not just another auctioning event. It was that platform where all the participants had to analyze situations, negotiate, bid on the right sets of assets and hit the deal in order to win!

The event started on a high note with more than 200 participants competing against each other in the preliminary round! It was a quiz conducted on Kahoot App after which only 12 teams could qualify for the real game!

Every team was given 1,00,000 coins for the entire event. From this they had to bid for oil reserves and Vehicles, the team to transport the maximum number of oil barrels won the game.

But this was not all there was to this event. It was filled with twists and turns. A surprise came on the way for participants when they got to know that they can buy action cards with their coins to increase their production or sabotage someone else's production.

Not only this, there were also news flashes based on which teams had to critically analyze with which team they could inter-trade their vehicles. So this event was not only about winning and making a mark for yourself but also making allies so that every team could complete their transportation of oil barrels.
