REPORT:

The bi-annual fest, Arth-Kumbh, organized by the Finance and Investment Cell - Blue chip, kicked off with a compelling panel discussion on the intricacies of deal flow in finance. The distinguished panellists, Arjun Mehra and Ananya Narang, who both contribute their expertise to the Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) department at KPMG, provided invaluable insights into the complex processes and technical nuances involved in managing financial transactions.

During the discussion, Arjun Mehra and Ananya Narang shed light on the expansive nature of a single project in the finance and investment domain. They emphasized that a typical project involves a comprehensive lifecycle, from the initial identification of potential deals to the negotiation and execution phases. The speakers underscored the need for meticulous attention to detail throughout each stage, as a single oversight could have significant implications. In addition to technical expertise, the speakers underscored the significance of adaptability in the dynamic field of finance. Given the ever-changing market conditions and regulatory landscape, professionals in the M&A department must stay agile and continuously update their knowledge and skills to navigate challenges and seize opportunities.

The panel discussion at Arth-Kumbh served as an enriching platform for students and enthusiasts to gain a deeper understanding of deal flow in finance. The event set the tone for the subsequent sessions of Arth-Kumbh, promising a wealth of knowledge and engagement for all participants. The Fiscal Face-Off is a boardroom case study competition organized as a part of the Bi-Annual Fest - ArthKumbh'23 by The Blue Chip, the Finance and Investment cell of Sri Venkateswara College. This thrilling competition is designed to bring out the best in financial minds and comprises two challenging rounds.

The first round is conducted online, during which participants are required to submit their comprehensive case analyses. This is followed by a final round where selected participants will be invited to the campus to compete and present their solutions to a distinguished panel of judges.

The competition pushes the boundaries of financial acumen and analytical thinking, providing participants with an opportunity to delve into intricate real-world fiscal challenges. The winning teams were-

Position	Team Name	Participant 1 Name	Participant 2 Name	Name of College
Winner	Team Finfluencers	Aryan Bhageria	Manav Aggarwal	BIMTECH
1 st runner up	Team Fin-quisitives	Asmi Chawla	Pakhi Priya	Lady Shri Ram College
2 nd runner up	Team Ambition X	Hardik Bhagat	-	Hansraj

The event held was Mock-stock. The participants were initially given a capital of Rs.10 lakhs to invest in their desired asset class based on the rumours provided to them. The objective was to check the analytical skills using an investing stimulation. The event tested the wits and logical reasoning of the participants by making them analyse the rumours.

There were 2 rounds of Mock-stock itself. The participants were given 8-9 rumours in each round, related to the show. The profits and losses of the participants were carried forward to the second round. There was a total of 200+ teams with participants crossing the 250 limits. The winning teams were-

Position	Team Name	Participant 1 Name	Participant 2 Name	Name of College
Winner	Team Alpha Traders	Mohammad Armaan	Syun Goyal	Shaheed Sukhdev College of Business Studies
1 st runner up	Team Wall Street Vibes	Shubh Bhaskar	-	Sri Venkateswara College
2 nd runner up	Team Tanishq Taluja	Tanishq Taluja	-	Motilal Nehru College
