Report

The session began with an overview of top education hubs like the USA, UK, Ireland, and Canada, highlighting their strengths in life sciences and finance. Dublin was noted as the "Second Silicon City," and the benefits of a U.S. master's degree, including better H1B visa prospects, were discussed.

The speakers compared MiM and MBA programs, outlining their differences and suggesting topics for both. They also highlighted key admission criteria universities consider, such as academic achievements and extracurriculars, and discussed notable U.S. institutions in cities like Texas, Boston, and Chicago.

The session concluded with a Q&A, addressing students' queries about studying abroad.
