REPORT

TEACH WITH PURPOSE-A TEACHING WORKSHOP

Project Prerna, an initiative by the CDF society at Sri Venkateswara College, recently organized an engaging and enlightening session in collaboration with the Teach for India Foundation (TFI). The session, held on 14th March 2024, aimed to delve into teaching methodologies, pedagogy, and the essential traits of a student-oriented educator.

Facilitated by TFI members, the session commenced with an exploration of various teaching techniques designed to foster an interactive and inclusive learning environment. Through fun discussions and interactive activities, we gained valuable insights into the art of effective teaching.

One of the highlights of the session was the incorporation of fun tasks and games, strategically designed to illustrate the principles of good teaching. These activities not only captivated the participants' attention but also served as practical demonstrations of how to engage students and make learning enjoyable.

Throughout the session, emphasis was placed on the significance of being a student-oriented educator. Attendees were encouraged to adopt a holistic approach to teaching, considering the diverse needs and learning styles of their students. Strategies for creating personalized learning experiences and fostering a supportive classroom culture were discussed as well.

The collaborative nature of the session fostered a sense of camaraderie among the members of Project Prerna. By asking multiple doubts and questions with regards to our own efforts on project prerna and our frequent slum visits and as educators we were able to reflect on our own teaching practices and identify areas for growth and improvement. Positive feedbacks were also given by students regarding this session
