Report : Hands-on Seminar on Google Gemini & Nano Banana

A hands-on seminar on Google Gemini and Nano Banana was organized on 27th August 2026 at Sri Venkateswara College, Room No. 13, from 2:30 PM to 4:30 PM. The event aimed to introduce students to the growing applications of Generative AI and encourage them to explore AI as a tool for creativity and innovation.

The session began with an introduction to Google Gemini and Nano Banana, followed by demonstrations of their practical applications. Students were guided on how AI tools can be used for creative ideation, visualisation, image generation and transforming ideas into innovative concepts.

As part of the “Fund My Crazy 2026” activity, participants were given approximately 20–30 minutes to develop an idea based on reimagining a city element. They then presented their ideas through a one-minute pitch. The event consisted of two rounds, with winners selected from the presenters.

The activity provided students with an opportunity to think creatively, develop innovative solutions and communicate their ideas effectively within a limited time. It also helped participants gain practical exposure to emerging AI tools and understand their potential in creative and problem-solving activities.

The event concluded with the selection of winners and completion of the feedback process. Certificates of Participation were provided to participants, while winners received recognition as part of the competition. Overall, the seminar was an engaging and informative experience that encouraged students to explore the possibilities of Generative AI.
