REPORT

Department of English, History, Political Science and Sociology organised the Partition Horrors Remembrance Day with IGNCA (Indira Gandhi National Centre for The Arts) on 14th August at Sri Venkateswara College, University of Delhi. The event provided a stage through which multiple frames associated with the partition could be showcased. Under the concerned event, three programs namely Partition Exhibition, Poem Recitation Competition, and Movie Screening were organized which attracted a huge audience and many participated too.

The event started with an exhibition named Bleeding Borders. Curated by students, the exhibition focused on how the experiences of those who lived through the Partition are reflected in the memories, narratives, and identities of their descendants. Partition leads us to delve into the idea of Post memory, which refers to the phenomenon where the experiences of a traumatic past are transmitted to those who did not live through it, yet are profoundly affected by it, through stories, artifacts, and collective memory. This exhibition examined how the echoes of the violence and displacement during Partition reverberate through familial and cultural memory, influencing contemporary perceptions and identities. The exhibit illuminated how this shared past shapes their understanding of identity, heritage, and geopolitical dynamics in South Asia. By presenting these intergenerational narratives, the exhibition not only commemorated the historical event but also highlighted the continuing impact of Partition on modern identities and cultural consciousness by pushing one to think about the politics of pain and remembrance. It serves as a space for reflection on how the wounds of the past are carried forward, offering insights into the ongoing dialogue about memory, trauma, and reconciliation.

After the exhibition, a poetry reciting competition was organized for the students titled 'The Memories of a Broken Past'. A total of 16 students participated in the contest and highlighted the pain the partition has carried forward. Different students narrated the story differently but the theme remained the same and thus the memory of it. The competition reflected the memories that the poets have written down beautifully, all of them in some way or other, forced the audience to relate themselves with the survivors or with the people who have lost their lives in the due course. The students gave their 100 percent in the event and tried to appeal to the audience to nurture the past which the present generation is forgetting.

The results of the competition are as follow: -

Name of the Event	Judges	Guest Speaker	Winners
The Memories of a Broken Past	Prof. Rina Ramdev (Department of English) Prof. Jitendra Veer Kalra (Department of Hindi)	Prof. Meenakshi Bharat (Department of English)	1 st Prize- Afia Asif 2 nd Prize-Rishi Jorwal 3 rd Prize- Hamid Ali

After the refreshments, the third and the most anticipated event begun, a movie named ‘Pinjar’ was shown to the audience which was released in the year 2003. Before the movie started, Dr. Preeti Singh from the Department of Political Science delivered a brief speech about the event and the movie. Approximately 140 students from various departments, along with professors, were in attendance. Subtitles in English were provided to accommodate those not familiar with Hindi. The audience attentively viewed the movie, which evoked memories of the tragic partition of India, particularly in the Punjab region. It helped us comprehend the socio-political impact of the partition and fostered a sense of patriotism. During the intermission, refreshments were served, and a solemn two-minute silence was observed at 5:00 PM to honour the martyrs of the Partition. The movie concluded by 5:15 PM, followed by a brief discussion. Overall, the screening deepened our understanding of the partition's horrors and its socio-cultural implications, emphasizing the importance of human values in the face of flawed political decisions.

The event not only deepened participants' understanding of history and notes related with the partition but also enriched their critical thinking, knowledge and verbal skills. It helped the student to get an insight of their past which they might were unaware of and forgetting.
